DRESSED FOR THE LADIES.

BY RUTH EARLE.

Well! I've been presented at court. St. James's? Mercy, no! At the Bres-, to His Highness El Hagg Abdullah My Sadik Pasha.

Who said "What a name?" I'd like to tell you that little string consonants and vowels is, next to ne, the most aristocratic in all Abys- " siria. Here it is written in Arabic by the very hand of Abdullah himself;

Fint in consideration of these facts—that obust are married to the whole harem, and are desperately smitten with every woman you've seen in America, from the hotel chambermaids to the girls triving in the park—I do hereby command my fluttering heartstrings to be still.

Says New York Is "It."

In reply to my broadside of questions I learned that from the skyscrapers above to the Subway under the earth, New York knecked spots out of London; that the underground express was the fastest he'd ever ridden in; that the American men were the rudest and American women the fairest he'd ever hoped to see.

He was just entering upon a dissertation on New York foods, the scarcity of goat meat, and the rarity of elephant steak stew, when Dinarazade spied the turbans.

"Be a dear and put them on, Your Hischess, rilease," she begged.

"Yes, do!" we cried.

His Highness refused. He explained that a Piccadilly cost and a brown art noveau handkerchief would not be comme if faut.

Winter Eczema sleeps in the system through the long hot months, and gives no sign of its presence; but at the coming of Winter the trouble asserts itself and it becomes one of the most painful and distressing of all skin diseases. The blood is filled with poisonus acids which seem to be excited by the cold; and as these are thrown off through the pores and glands, the skin cracks and bleeds, the flesh becomes hot and feverish and the itching intense. The natural oils which keep the skin soft and pliant are dried up by the cold, bleak winds, causing it to become hard and dry, giving it that shiny, leathery appearance, characteristic of the disease.
